THE SCIENTIFIC LECTURES OF DR. TABER.

Dr. B. C. Taber will commence a series of lectures at the Athenaeum, in this city, on Saturday and Sunday evenings, March 20 and 21, on "The True Philosophy of Life," continuing them from time to time, as circumstances will permit, at which due notice will be given. The subject for the first lecture will be "God the Creator." That of the second will be "The Language of Things or the Science of Our Existence." This little-understood subject is one of the most profound interest to us at the present time, amidst the confusion of conflicting ideas, as far as the key by which we can unravel the language in which the Bible was and how it must be interpreted. At the same time throwing light on the physiology and pathology of the past, and the scientific knowledge of the present. The subjects of the lectures will be of the most interesting interest, in connection with the new truths and ideas of the present century, and will be transferred to the memory of the audience. 3-21-1t
